Journals Director’s welcome

We hope you like the new format offering a comprehensive and user-friendly guide to our journals. This year we have added more information about the related activities that ensure the publishing service we offer is always of the very highest standard. Throughout this year’s guide you will find a selection of additional ‘service pages’, which you should find useful and informative.

Highlights for 2008

- Cambridge Journals continues to be the first choice for many leading societies and associations and we are delighted to announce that new publishing partnerships have been established with the Australian Mathematical Society, the American Society of Church History, the British Institute of International and Comparative Law, the Center for Austrian Studies, University of Minnesota, the History of Economics Society, The Royal Institute of Philosophy and the Southern Political Science Association.

- In addition, this year we are launching a host of new titles including The Cognitive Behaviour Therapist for the British Association for Behavioural and Cognitive Psychotherapies, The Review of Symbolic Logic with The Association of Symbolic Logic, The Marine Biological Association of the United Kingdom’s new title Marine and Freshwater Biodiversity, and for the Religion and Politics Research Section of The American Political Science Association Politics and Religion. The complete list of new titles (correct at time of print) follows this editorial.

- Cambridge Journals performed exceptionally well in the latest Journal Citation Reports®, with an average increase in Impact Factor of 13.2% (against an overall 6.9% increase). We publish the top ranked journal of all 1768 titles in the Social Science Citation Index and have number 1 category positions with American Political Science Review and The China Quarterly. In the Science Citation Index Behavioral and Brain Sciences (see page 218) and Journal of Navigation (see page 61) are top ranked within their categories.
• Cambridge Journals Online (CJO) continues to be a leader in functionality and online delivery (see pages 56 and 144).

• Our Digital Archive project continues to gain momentum in 2008 with the release of a further 90 archived titles (see page 216).

• The UK Publishing and Printing operations have been awarded ISO 14001:2004 certification (see page 240).

Cambridge is on an upward curve! Contact us now to join in.

Making an Impact

Impact Factors are frequently used within the academic publishing realm as a measure of a journal’s importance within its field. This rough guideline statistic, which has attracted some level of debate, is calculated each year by Thomson Scientific using the total number of citations in relation to frequency of publication (for those journals which it indexes). Results are published in Journal Citation Reports® (JCR®).

Cambridge Journals performed exceptionally well in the most recent JCR® – testimony to the great efforts that it has placed throughout the year to attract the very best research material. Cambridge journals outperformed their competitors with an average increase in Impact Factor of 13.2% (against an average of 6.9% for the journals within their subject categories).
Top Rankings

Cambridge Journals achieved top ranks with a number of the journals we publish: Behavioral and Brain Sciences appeared top in the category of Behavioral Sciences, ahead of 1,768 other titles. Journal of Navigation, American Political Science Review and The China Quarterly all also came top in their respective fields.

Four other Cambridge journals, although not coming top, showed phenomenal growth within their areas: AI EDAM (page 46), Modern Asian Studies (page 25), Social Philosophy and Policy (page 189), and Environment and Development Economics (page 77) showed outstanding increases of 216%, 140%, 136% and 111% respectively.

We are delighted to report that as a result of these recent results, over a quarter of Cambridge journals now sit within the top 10 for their categories when ranked by Impact Factor. Other titles worthy of particular note this year, all in the top five for their category, include:

- Bulletin of Entomological Research
- Psychological Medicine
- International Organization
- Microscopy and Microanalysis
- The Journal of Economic History
- Studies in Second Language Acquisition

The four journals published on behalf of the Nutrition Society (British Journal of Nutrition, Nutrition Research Reviews, Proceedings of the Nutrition Society and Public Health and Nutrition) saw rises ranging from 11% to 29% (compared to an average category rise of just 3.0%).

The International Journal of Neuropsychopharmacology rose by 30% compared with an average of 4.5%.

This upward trend is yet another reason why more and more associations are now turning to Cambridge Journals to service their publishing requirements.
Editorial Contacts

Cambridge University Press advances learning, knowledge and research worldwide. Cambridge Journals fulfils this mission through continued expansion of its product range and its reach to new markets, new readers and just as important, new potential contributors to the journals we publish.

We are one of the few journals publishers to have developed an online platform, Cambridge Journals Online, and can offer a wide range of services to learned societies, university presses and other academic publishers.

Chinese Journal of Agricultural Biotechnology

Editor-in-Chief
R. Hull
John Innes Centre, UK

Chinese Journal of Agricultural Biotechnology brings cutting-edge Chinese research to an international audience. The journal takes the very best papers published in Chinese in the Journal of Agricultural Biotechnology, translates them and makes them available to the international scientific community. Papers cover subjects such as biotechnology (cellular, chromosomal, enzymatic, genetic, and fermentation engineering) of agricultural plants, animals, and relevant microorganisms (including nitrogen fixing bacteria and pathogens), and related biochemistry and structural analysis.

Experimental Agriculture

With a focus on the tropical and sub-tropical regions of the world, Experimental Agriculture publishes the results of original research on field, plantation and herbage crops grown for food or feed, or for industrial purposes, and on farming systems, including livestock and people. It reports experimental work designed to explain how crops respond to the environment in biological and physical terms, and on the social and economic issues that may influence the uptake of the results of research by policy makers and farmers, including the role of institutions and partnerships in delivering impact. The journal also publishes accounts and critical discussions of new quantitative and qualitative methods in agricultural and ecosystems research, and of contemporary issues arising in countries where agricultural production needs to develop rapidly. There is a regular book review section and occasional, often invited, reviews of research. Most papers are published within six months from acceptance. The January 2008 issue will publish papers from the CGIAR-convened Impact Assessment Workshop held at CIMMYT in Mexico, addressing the challenges of impact assessment of participatory and gender analysis approaches in a changing public agricultural research environment.

The Journal of Agricultural Science

Senior Editor (Animal papers)
Julian Wiseman
University of Nottingham, UK

Senior Editor (Crop & Soil papers)
Robert E. L. Naylor
University of Aberdeen, UK

The Journal of Agricultural Science publishes papers concerned with the advance of agriculture and the use of land resources throughout the world. It publishes original scientific work related to strategic and applied studies in all aspects of agricultural science, including agronomy; crop physiology, crop protection, breeding, genetics and pathology; soil science; animal nutrition, physiology and genetics; organic and sustainable agricultural systems; and the mathematical and statistical methods used in experimentation and data analysis. The journal also publishes book reviews, invited short reviews of scientific topics of current agricultural relevance, and letters. Occasional themed issues are published which have recently included centenary reviews and wheat papers. In 2008 papers on modelling animal systems will be themed.

Renewable Agriculture and Food Systems

Editor-in-Chief
J. W. Doran
University of Nebraska, USA

Renewable Agriculture and Food Systems (formerly American Journal of Alternative Agriculture) is a multi-disciplinary journal which focuses on the science that underpins economically, environmentally, and socially sustainable approaches to agriculture and food production. The journal publishes original research and review articles on the economic, ecological, and environmental impacts of agriculture; the effective use of renewable resources and biodiversity in agro-ecosystems; and the technological and sociological implications of sustainable food systems. It also contains a discussion forum, which presents lively discussions on new and provocative topics.

The International Journal of Animal Bioscience

Editor-in-Chief
M. Doreau
INRA, France

Published for The Animal Consortium animal-journal.eu

animal attracts the best research in animal biology and animal systems from across the spectrum of the agricultural, biomedical, and environmental sciences. It is the central element in an exciting collaboration between the British Society of Animal Science (BSAS), Institut National de la Recherche Agronomique (INRA) and the European Federation for Animal Science (EAAP) and represents a merging of three scientific journals: Animal Science; Animal Research; Reproduction, Nutrition, Development. animal publishes original cutting-edge research, ‘hot’ topics and horizon-scanning reviews on animal-related aspects of the life sciences at the molecular, cellular, organ, whole animal and production system levels. The main subject areas include: animal breeding and genetics; nutrition; physiology and functional biology of systems; behaviour, health and welfare; livestock farming systems and environmental impact; product quality, human health and well-being. Comparative Exercise Physiology

The International Journal of Exercise Physiology, Biomechanics and Nutrition

Editor
D. Marlin
University of Bristol, UK

Comparative Exercise Physiology is the only journal specifically dealing with the latest research in comparative exercise physiology across all animal species, including humans. It offers an understanding of the physiological, nutritional and biochemical parameters that determine levels of performance and athletic achievement, through both primary and review material. The core subjects include exercise physiology, biomechanics, gait, nutrition and biochemistry, injury and rehabilitation, psychology and behaviour, and breeding and genetics.

Cambridge Archaeological Journal

Editor
John Robb
University of Cambridge, UK

Published for the McDonald Institute for Archaeological Research

The Cambridge Archaeological Journal (CAJ) is the leading journal for cognitive and symbolic archaeology. It provides a forum for innovative archaeological research and theoretical discussion, with particular focus on the role and development of human symbolic capacities, beliefs and practices. Area coverage is world-wide, and CAJ covers the entire span from human origins to recent history. Specific topics covered in recent issues include: the use of cultural neurophenomenology for the understanding of Maya religious belief, agency and the individual, new approaches to rock art and shamanism, the significance of prehistoric monuments, ritual behaviour on Pacific Islands, and body metamorphosis in prehistoric boulder artworks. In addition to major articles and shorter notes, the Cambridge Archaeological Journal includes special topical sections and review features on significant recent books. The journal has a distinguished international editorial board of scholars of wide repute.

arq: Architectural Research Quarterly

Editor
Richard Weston
Cardiff University, UK

arq acts as an international forum for practitioners and academics by publishing cutting-edge work covering all aspects of architectural endeavour. Generously illustrated throughout, arq is edited with busy practitioners and academics in mind. Contents include building design, urbanism, history, theory, environmental design, construction, materials, information technology, and practice. Other features include interviews, occasional reports, lively letters pages, book reviews and an end feature, Insight. Reviews of significant buildings are published at length and in a detail matched today by few other architectural journals. Elegantly designed, inspirational and often provocative, arq is essential reading (and Continuing Professional Development) for practitioners in industry and consultancy as well as for academic researchers.

Bulletin of the School of Oriental and African Studies

Editor
G. R. Hawting
School of Oriental and African Studies, UK

Published for the School of Oriental and African Studies

The Bulletin of the School of Oriental and African Studies (BSOAS) is an international journal publishing research and reviews in the arts, humanities, law and languages relating to Africa and Asia. BSOAS is distinguished by the quality of its scholarship and the range of its coverage. BSOAS welcomes submissions on the history, religions, languages, literatures, laws, artistic cultures, and related fields pertaining to the societies and countries of Asia and Africa. Authors are encouraged to write in such a way that they be understood by interested non-specialists. As well as research articles, BSOAS publishes short notes and communications, obituaries of significant scholars, and review articles that situate important new publications in their wider scholarly context. BSOAS also has a comprehensive section where new publications are reviewed or, when appropriate, more briefly noted. There will be a special issue on scripture in 2008.

International Journal of Asian Studies

Editor-in-Chief
Takeshi Hamashita
Ryukoku University, Kyoto, Japan

Managing Editors
Jason Bell
University of Tokyo, Japan
Akinobu Kuroda
University of Tokyo, Japan

Published in association with the Institute of Culture, University of Tokyo

International Journal of Asian Studies (IJAS) is an interdisciplinary, English-language forum for research in the social sciences and humanities. IJAS examines Asia on a regional basis, emphasising patterns and tendencies that go beyond the borders of individual countries. It is particularly interested in locating contemporary changes within a historical framework, especially using interdisciplinary approaches, and so promotes comparative studies involving the various regions of Asia. As well as encouraging contributions from western scholars, IJAS focuses attention on the work of Asian scholars, in order to encourage multi-directional communication across the international Asian studies community. It includes both themed and general issues.

International Journal of Middle East Studies

Editor
Judith Tucker
Georgetown University, USA

Published under the auspices of the Middle East Studies Association

The International Journal of Middle East Studies publishes original research on politics, society and culture in the Middle East from the seventh century to the present. The journal also covers other regions of the world which have had, or currently have, strong Middle Eastern ties or contexts. Particular attention is paid to the history, politics, economics, anthropology, sociology, literature, and cultural studies of the area and to comparative religion, theology, law, philosophy, art, music, and film. Each issue contains approximately 50 pages of detailed book reviews organized by subject. A new section, Quick Studies, features work in progress – research and analysis in brief. Subscription to the print version also includes the bi-annual MESA Bulletin.

Journal of American Studies

Editor
Susan Castillo
King’s College London, UK

Associate Editor (Book Reviews)
Scott Lucas
University of Birmingham, UK

Sponsored by the British Association for American Studies

Journal of American Studies seeks to critique and interrogate the notion of “America”, pursuing this through international perspectives on the history, literature, politics and culture of the United States. This quarterly journal publishes original peer-reviewed research and analysis by established and emerging scholars throughout the world, considering US history, politics, literature, institutions, economics, film, popular culture, geography, sociology and related subjects in domestic, continental, hemispheric, and global contexts. Its expanded book review section offers in-depth analysis of recent American Studies scholarship to promote further discussion and debate. The journal is intended not only for students and scholars, but also for general readers with an interest in the United States.

The Journal of Asian Studies

Editor-in-Chief
Kenneth M. George
University of Wisconsin, Madison, USA

Published for the Association for Asian Studies, Inc.

The Journal of Asian Studies (JAS) has played a defining role in the field of Asian studies for nearly 70 years. JAS publishes the very best empirical and multidisciplinary work on Asia, spanning the arts, history, literature, the social sciences, and cultural studies. Experts around the world turn to this quarterly journal for the latest in-depth scholarship on Asia’s past and present, for its extensive book reviews, and for its state-of-the-field essays on established and emerging topics. With coverage reaching from South and Southeast Asia to China, Inner Asia, and Northeast Asia, JAS welcomes broad comparative and transnational studies as well as essays emanating from fine-grained historical, cultural, political, and literary research. The journal also publishes clusters of papers that present new and vibrant discussions on specific themes and issues.

The Journal of Modern African Studies

Editor
Christopher Clapham
University of Cambridge, UK

The Journal of Modern African Studies offers a quarterly survey of developments in modern African politics and society. Its main emphasis is on current issues in African politics, economies, societies and international relations. It is intended not only for students and academic specialists, but also for general readers and practitioners with a concern for modern Africa, living and working both inside and outside the continent. Editorial policy avoids commitment to any political viewpoint or ideology, but aims at a fair examination of controversial issues in order to promote a deeper understanding of what is happening in Africa today. The journal also includes an invaluable book review section.

Journal of Southeast Asian Studies

Editor
Yong Mun Cheong
National University of Singapore, Singapore

Published for the History Department,
National University of Singapore

The Journal of Southeast Asian Studies is one of the principal outlets for scholarly articles on Southeast Asia (Brunei, Cambodia, Indonesia, Laos, Malaysia, Myanmar, the Philippines, East Timor, Singapore, Thailand and Vietnam). Embracing a wide range of academic disciplines in the humanities and social sciences, the journal publishes manuscripts oriented toward a scholarly readership but written to be accessible to non-specialists. The extensive book review section includes works in Southeast Asian languages.

Modern Asian Studies

Editor
Gordon Johnson
University of Cambridge, UK

Modern Asian Studies promotes an understanding of contemporary Asia and its rich inheritance. Covering South Asia, South-East Asia, China, and Japan, this bi-monthly journal publishes original research articles concerned with the history, geography, politics, sociology, literature, economics, social anthropology and culture of the area. It specialises in the longer monographic essay based on archival materials and new field work. Its expanded book review section offers detailed and in-depth analysis of recent literature.

Biofilms

Editor-in-Chief
M Wilson
University College London, UK

Biofilms are increasingly being recognised as the preferred mode of growth of microbes in a wide range of habitats, and have a large and varied role in human activities. Biofilms is the journal of choice for researchers in the biofilm field. Published quarterly, Biofilms contains original research and review articles covering the structure, formation and growth of biofilms, gene expression and transfer in biofilms, human and animal diseases involving biofilms, biofilms in the food, oil and pharmaceutical industries, biofilms associated with soil, water, waste treatment, corrosion and marine environments. It also publishes reviews of books and websites and contains announcements of interest to the biofilm community.

Epidemiology and Infection

Senior Editor/Managing Editor

Norman Noah
London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, UK

Epidemiology and Infection publishes original reports and reviews on all aspects of infection in humans and animals. Particular emphasis is given to the epidemiology, prevention and control of infectious diseases. The field covered is broad and includes the zoonoses, tropical infections, food hygiene, vaccine studies, statistics and the clinical, social and public-health aspects of infectious disease. Papers covering microbiology and immunology which have an epidemiological relevance are part of this broad field. Papers come from medical and veterinary scientists worldwide. It has become the key periodical in which to find the latest reports on recently discovered infections and new technology. For those concerned with policy and planning for the control of infections, the papers on mathematical modelling of epidemics caused by historical, current and emergent infections, will be of particular value.

Centre for Applied Research in Educational Technologies, Cambridge, UK

Published in association with the Centre for Applied Research in Educational Technologies (CARET)

Expert Reviews in Molecular Medicine is an exciting online journal featuring high-quality reviews of the latest developments in this fast-growing field. Coverage includes gene therapy, immunotherapeutics, drug design, vaccines, genetic testing, pathogenesis, epidemiology, genomics, diagnostics and techniques. Reviews are published continually on the website. The journal’s innovative functionality allows viewers to access not only the review articles, but also fully abstracted references, figures, photographs, tables, animations and molecular models. Expert Reviews in Molecular Medicine will be of interest to biomedical researchers, clinicians and students, as well as researchers in the pharmaceutical and biotechnology industries. Access to articles published from 1997-2002 (Vols 1-4) is free; go to expertreviews.org to view them. Access to articles published from 2003 is by purchase/subscription.

Fetal and Maternal Medicine Review

Editor-in-Chief
Stephen Robson
Fetal Medicine Unit, Royal Victoria Infirmary, Newcastle upon Tyne, UK

Fetal and Maternal Medicine Review publishes high quality reviews drawn from all relevant disciplines in this rapidly expanding field. Each issue includes a selection of clinical and research reviews from experts in the field. Rapid publication and a deliberate preference for authors currently active in research ensures this journal has immediate relevance to contemporary clinical practice. Subject areas covered include fetal medicine, maternal medicine, neonatology, obstetric anaesthesia, epidemiology and basic science. It is essential reading for all engaged in the care of pregnant women and neonates, including obstetricians and neonatologists, postgraduates training for specialist careers, specialist nursing and midwifery staff.

Journal of Biosocial Science

Editor
C. G. N. Mascie-Taylor
University of Cambridge, UK

Journal of Biosocial Science (JBS) is a leading interdisciplinary and international journal in the field of biosocial science, the common ground between biology and sociology. It acts as an essential reference guide for all biological and social scientists working in these interdisciplinary areas, including social and biological aspects of reproduction and its control, gerontology, ecology, genetics, applied psychology, sociology, education, criminology, demography, health and epidemiology. Publishing original research papers, short reports, reviews, lectures and book reviews, the journal also includes a debate section that encourages readers’ comments on specific articles, with subsequent response from the original author. JBS is truly international both in terms of geographical areas covered and its contributors. Its reputation for high quality and outstanding scholarship has made it into one of the leading journals in the area of biosocial science.

Journal of Helminthology

Editor
John Lewis
Royal Holloway, University of London, UK

Journal of Helminthology publishes original papers and review articles on all aspects of pure and applied helminthology, particularly those helminth parasites of environmental health, medical or veterinary importance. Research papers on helminths in wildlife hosts, including plant and insect parasites, are also published along with taxonomic papers contributing to the systematics of a group. The journal will be of interest to academics and researchers involved in the fields of human and veterinary parasitology, public health, microbiology, ecology and biochemistry.

Stimulated by recent advances in neuroscience, Neuron Glia Biology serves the expanding need for a scientific journal recognizing that two-way communication between neurons and glia is essential for nervous system function. In focusing on cell-cell interactions in the nervous system, this journal offers an expanded scope that bridges what have traditionally been regarded as separate scientific disciplines. Neuron Glia Biology publishes outstanding original research on cell-cell interactions in the nervous system, using molecular, biochemical, electrophysiological, and imaging methods, to investigate interactions among neurons and among glia, and between neurons and other non-neuronal cells. Basic and clinical research reporting new findings on cell-cell interactions during nervous system development, in association with information processing, synaptic plasticity, myelination, and pathology are presented, along with special feature issues and concise reviews of emerging areas in the field. University of Glasgow, UK
Robin B. Gasser
University of Melbourne, Australia

Parasitology is an important specialist journal covering the latest advances in the subject. It publishes original papers on all aspects of parasitology and host-parasite relationships, ranging from the latest discoveries in biochemistry and molecular biology to ecology and epidemiology in the context of the medical, veterinary and biological sciences. In addition to the monthly journal, and included in the subscription price, are two specially commissioned issues covering important topics in parasitology. One of those will be the annual proceedings of the Autumn Symposium of the British Society for Parasitology (Parasitic Co-infections: Challenges and Solutions in 2008).

Progress in Neurotherapeutics and Neuropsychopharmacology

Editor-in-Chief
Jeffrey L. Cummings
Los Angeles, USA

Progress in Neurotherapeutics and Neuropsychopharmacology is an essential update of recent trials in all aspects of the management of neurologic and neuropsychiatric disorders, and will be an invaluable resource for practising neurologists as well as clinical and translational neuroscientists. Published annually, the series provides readers with updates of recent clinical trial results, impacts of trials on guidelines and evidence-based practice, advances in trial methodologies, and the evolution of biomarkers in trials. The series focuses on trials in neurotherapeutics, including disease-modifying and symptomatic agents for neurological diseases, psychopharmacological management of neurologic and psychiatric illnesses, and non-drug treatments. Each paper is authored by a leader in the area of neurotherapeutics and clinical trials, and the series is guided by an editor-in-chief and editorial board with broad experience in drug development and neuropsychopharmacology.

Reviews in Clinical Gerontology

Editor
K. Woodhouse
University of Wales College of Medicine, UK

Reviews in Clinical Gerontology brings together specially commissioned international reviews on recent developments in geriatric medicine (including rehabilitation, nursing care and psychiatry of old age) and in biological, psychological and social gerontology. There is systematic coverage of the literature on a cyclical basis. All the major topics of interest are reviewed during the course of a five-year cycle. The issues build into a valuable source of reference for everyone working with elderly people.

Thalamus & Related Systems

Editor-in-Chief

Diego Contreras
University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, USA

Thalamus and Related Systems publishes papers on the structure, organization and chemistry of thalamic neurons, including the development, single-cell electrophysiology and synaptic interaction, molecular biology, neuropsychology, computational neurobiology and pathology of the thalamus. Experimental studies, using a variety of techniques in vivo, in vitro and in computo, as well as clinical and behavioural studies (but not case reports), will be considered for publication. Papers with relevance to the thalamus and related systems, such as activities in thalamocortical, corticothalamic or brainstem-thalamic interactions, will also be considered. Multiple-part papers are encouraged. The journal publishes regular articles, short communications, occasional feature articles to address current and important issues (by invitation), mini-reviews and commentaries, and book reviews relevant to the thalamus.

The official journal of the International Union for Pure and Applied Biophysics

Quarterly Reviews of Biophysics covers the whole field of biophysics, from ion channels to DNA topology and from X-ray diffraction to NMR. The journal has gained a worldwide reputation, demonstrated by its high ranking in the ISI Science Citation Index, as a forum for general and specialised communication between biophysicists working in different areas. The majority of reviews published are invited from authors who have made significant contributions to the field, who give critical, readable and sometimes controversial accounts of recent progress and problems in their speciality. Thematic issues are occasionally published.

Published for The Classical Association

The Classical Quarterly has a reputation for publishing the highest quality classical scholarship for nearly 100 years. It publishes research papers and short notes in the fields of language, literature, history and philosophy. Two substantial issues (around 300 pages each) of The Classical Quarterly appear each year, in May and December. Given the quality and depth of the articles published in The Classical Quarterly, any serious classical library needs to have a copy on its shelves.

Published with the wider audience in mind, Greece & Rome features informative and lucid articles on ancient history, art, archaeology, religion, philosophy, and the classical tradition. Although its content is of interest to professional scholars, undergraduates and general readers who wish to be kept informed of what scholars are currently thinking will find it engaging and accessible. All Greek and Latin quotations are translated.

A subscription to Greece & Rome includes a supplement of New Surveys in the Classics. These supplements have covered a broad range of topics, from key figures like Homer and Virgil, to subjects such as Greek tragedy, thought and science, women, comedy, slavery, and Roman religion.
Innovation in e-publishing – www.cambridge.org/online

Cambridge University Press publishes a suite of high quality, dynamic and innovative online products offering a new dimension of access and usability to our extensive scholarly and educational content.

Cambridge Companions Online

Cambridge Companions Online is the online version of the renowned Cambridge Companions series, covering literature, philosophy, classics, religion and cultural studies. Over 250 Companions offer lively, accessible introductions to major writers, artists, philosophers, topics and periods.

The online collection enhances and complements the book series by adding unrivalled access and functionality, and is supported by reference features including chronologies, bibliographies and guides to further reading.

Invaluable as both a teaching and research tool, this is an essential purchase for any library with an interest in the humanities.

Shakespeare Survey Online

Shakespeare Survey Online makes all issues of the Survey available online for the first time.

Shakespeare Survey is a yearbook of Shakespeare studies and production. Since 1948 Survey has published the best international scholarship in English and many of its essays have become classics of Shakespeare criticism. Each volume is devoted to a theme, or play, or group of plays; each also contains a section of reviews of that year’s textual and critical studies, and of the year’s major British performances.
Orlando: Women’s Writing in the British Isles from the Beginnings to the Present

Orlando is a comprehensive electronic textbase relating to women’s writing in the British Isles, from the earliest times to today. It offers a wealth of biographical and critical information on more than 850 British women writers (including over 20,000 bibliographical listings), together with related entries on literary and historical events, male writers and non-British women writers.

Historical Statistics of the United States: Millennial Edition Online

The last edition of the Historical Statistics of the United States was published by the US Census Bureau in 1975. When the Bureau decided in the early 90s that it would not publish a new edition, a team of renowned social scientists came together with Cambridge University Press to create a new edition, adding thirty years of data and covering topics that had little or no coverage in 1975, including slavery, poverty and ethnicity.

Lectrix: Ancient Classics in a new light

Lectrix is a powerful online tool designed to help students read Greek and Latin texts in the original language by providing them with all the information required to actively construe a text at the click of a mouse.

The main focus of the interface is on the texts, which are complemented by a range of study tools including dictionary definition, parser, basic & advanced commentary and translation.

Lectrix is ideal for all students and researchers of the Classics, and of particular use to students who have completed an introductory language course in Greek or Latin.

Mathematical Structures in Computer Science

Editor-in-Chief

G. Longo
CNRS and Ecole Normale Supérieure, Paris, France

Mathematical Structures in Computer Science is a journal of theoretical computer science which focuses on the application of ideas from the structural side of mathematics and mathematical logic to computer science. The journal aims to bridge the gap between theoretical contributions and software design, publishing original papers of a high standard and broad surveys with original perspectives in all areas of computing, provided that ideas or results from logic, algebra, geometry, category theory or other areas of logic and mathematics form a basis for the work. The journal welcomes applications to computing based on the use of specific mathematical structures (e.g. topological and order-theoretic structures) as well as on proof-theoretic notions or results. The journal will also accept contributions in new interdisciplinary fields bridging computer science, quantum physics, mathematics and information theory. In particular, papers on quantum information processing and communication, as well as on the related issues in quantum language design will be considered.

Theatre Research International publishes articles on theatre practices from all continents in their aesthetic, social, cultural, and historical contexts, their relationship to other media of representation, and to other fields of inquiry. The journal seeks to reflect the evolving diversity of existing as well as emerging critical idioms of theatre and performance studies, prevalent in the scholarship of differing inter-cultural and world contexts. The journal also publishes a book review section, reflecting new research in the field.

Theatre Survey

Editor
Martin Puchner
Columbia University, USA

Associate Editor
Catherine Cole
University of California, Santa Barbara, USA

Published for the American Society for Theatre Research

Theatre Survey is chartered by the American Society for Theatre Research as a theatre history journal. Published twice a year, Theatre Survey provides rigorous historical and theoretical studies of performance across all periods, cultures, and methodologies; letters to the Editor; book reviews; lists of books received; and essays on new theatrical resources and exhibits. Recent issues have included position-pieces on theatre history and historiography in the New Millennium; and the subjects of other articles have ranged from postmodern Shakespearean production (on stage and in film) to the Kabuki theater; from medieval performance to the New Orleans Mardi Gras; and from issues of race, class, gender, and colonialism in performance to studies of John Rich's Covent Garden account books.

Published on behalf of Antarctic Science Ltd, Cambridge

Antarctic Science provides a truly international forum for the broad spread of studies that increasingly characterize scientific research in the region. From environmental management to biodiversity, from volcanoes to icebergs, from oceanography to the upper atmosphere, no other journal covers such a wide range of Antarctic scientific study. The journal attracts papers from all countries currently undertaking Antarctic research. It publishes both review and data papers with no limits on length, two page short notes on technical developments and recent discoveries, and book reviews. These, together with an editorial discussing broader aspects of science, provide a rich and varied mixture of items to interest researchers in all areas of science. One issue each year is normally devoted to a specific theme or papers from a major meeting.

International Journal of Astrobiology

Managing Editor
Simon Mitton
University of Cambridge, UK

Astrobiology combines the sciences of biology, chemistry, palaeontology, geology, atmospheric physics, planetary science, astrophysics and cosmology in the study of the origin, evolution and distribution of life in the universe and the future of life both on Earth and beyond. The International Journal of Astrobiology is the forum for practitioners in this exciting interdisciplinary field. Coverage includes cosmic prebiotic chemistry, planetary evolution, the search for planetary systems and habitable zones, extremophile biology and experimental simulation of extraterrestrial environments, Mars as an abode of life, life detection in our solar system and beyond, the search for extraterrestrial intelligence, the history of the science of astrobiology, as well as societal and educational aspects of astrobiology. Occasionally an issue of the journal is devoted to the keynote plenary research papers from an international meeting. A notable feature of the journal is the global distribution of its authors.

Journal of Systematic Palaeontology

Editor-in-Chief
Andrew B. Smith
The Natural History Museum, UK

Published for the Natural History Museum

The Journal of Systematic Palaeontology publishes major papers describing new or poorly understood faunas and floras, or which use systematics in ways that significantly advance our understanding of palaeogeography, palaeobiology, functional morphology, palaeoecology, biostratigraphy or phylogenetic relationships. Shorter contributions on technical or conceptual issues relating to systematic methodology and conservation issues are also welcome. In this way the journal aims to demonstrate and strengthen the fundamental contribution systematics and collection-based data make to evolutionary palaeontology.

Proceedings of the International Astronomical Union

Chair
Ian F. Corbett, IAU Assistant General Secretary
ESO, Germany

Published for The International Astronomical Union

The Proceedings Series of the International Astronomical Union (IAU) comprises high-quality and timely previews and reviews of fundamental and state-of-the-art astrophysical developments around the world, as presented at some ten IAU-sponsored conferences per year. The results are recorded in the Proceedings of its Symposia, in its Transactions A and B, and in its Highlights of Astronomy that contains the Proceedings of Joint Discussions held at the triennial General Assemblies of the IAU.

Subjects covered by the IAU Symposia and conferences are fundamental astronomy; the sun and heliosphere; planetary systems; stars and variable stars; interstellar matter; the galactic system; galaxies and the Universe; optical and infrared techniques; radio astronomy; and space and high-energy astrophysics. The Proceedings of these are published under the auspices of the IAU, as important records of the status of those scientific fields.

The IAU Proceedings Series is essential reading for both professional astrophysicists and students, for finding comprehensive reviews and for studying new developments in specialized fields.

Bird Conservation International

Editor-in-Chief
Stuart J. Marsden
Manchester Metropolitan University, UK

Published for BirdLife International

Bird Conservation International is a quarterly peer-reviewed journal focusing on the conservation of birds and their habitats. The official journal of BirdLife International, it provides stimulating, international and up-to-date coverage of a broad range of conservation topics, using birds to illuminate wider issues of biodiversity conservation and sustainable resource use. Bird Conservation International publishes original papers and reviews, including specifically-targeted articles and recommendations by leading experts. It seeks to promote world-wide research and action for the conservation of birds and the habitats upon which they depend. In 2008 an additional and extended special issue, The Science of Bird Conservation, will be published in memory of the ornithologist and conservationist Colin Bibby.

Environmental Conservation

Interdisciplinary Journal of International Environmental Science

Editor
Nicholas V. C. Polunin
University of Newcastle, UK

Published for the Foundation for Environmental Conservation

Environmental Conservation is one of the most cited interdisciplinary environmental science journals. It publishes research papers, comments, subject reviews and book reviews dealing with environmental science, policy and practice from local to global scales. The journal’s scope is very broad, including issues in human institutions, climate change, habitat dynamics and resource sustainability across all the Earth’s ecosystems. Environmental Conservation is essential reading for all environmental scientists, managers, consultants, agency workers and environmentalists to keep abreast of developments in environmental science and practice.

International Journal of Tropical Insect Science

Editor-in-Chief
C. Borgemeister
ICIPE, Kenya

Published on behalf of The International Centre of Insect Physiology and Ecology (ICIPE)

International Journal of Tropical Insect Science is the only journal devoted exclusively to the latest research in tropical and sub-tropical insect science. Each issue brings you original, peer-reviewed research findings on tropical insects and related arthropods, with special emphasis on their environmentally benign and sustainable management. The journal’s scope includes arthropod ecology and biodiversity, ethnoentomology, biosystematics and environmental issues.

In addition to original full research articles, short communications and scientific notes, the journal also publishes mini-reviews, reports of meetings, and book reviews. Papers and abstracts are published in English.

The Lichenologist

Senior Editor
Peter D. Crittenden
University of Nottingham, UK

Published on behalf of The British Lichen Society

The Lichenologist is the premier scientific journal devoted exclusively to the study of lichens worldwide. As the leading forum for the dissemination of new concepts and topical reviews, The Lichenologist reaches more scientists concerned with the study of lichens and lichen symbionts than any other single journal. All aspects of lichenology are considered including systematics and phylogenetics; molecular biology; ultrastructure, anatomy and morphology; secondary chemistry, effects of pollutants and use as bioindicators; biogeography. In addition to standard length research papers, the journal also publishes Short Communications and Book Reviews. A monthly issue may occasionally be devoted to papers deriving from a symposium.

Marine and Freshwater Biodiversity

Executive Editor
Ann L. Pulsford
The Marine Biological Association of the UK, Plymouth, UK

Published for the Marine Biological Association of the United Kingdom

Covering all aspects of biological diversity in aquatic environments, Marine and Freshwater Biodiversity is an exciting new title that serves as an online complement to its sister publication, Journal of the Marine Biological Association of the United Kingdom (JMBA).

Aquatic biodiversity is viewed as one of the key measures of the ecological health of the planet, and the journal recognizes a growing interest in research documenting the identification of marine organisms in locations where they had not formerly been found, or the effects of human activities on the ecology and distribution of aquatic species. Marine and Freshwater Biodiversity publishes articles covering all aspects of the diversity of species, ecosystems and the effects of natural events and human influences on the aquatic environment. The journal includes original research articles and commissioned reviews of changes in geographical range of species, the effects of the introduction of novel species to ecosystems, the effects of pollution on established ecosystems, policy and implementation of conservation issues, effects of other human activities, including aquaculture, biodiversity management and tourism.

Systematics and Biodiversity

Editor-in-Chief
Elliot Shubert
The Natural History Museum, UK

Published for The Natural History Museum

Systematics and Biodiversity is an international life science journal devoted to whole-organism biology, especially systematics and taxonomic biodiversity. It emphasizes the importance and multi-disciplinary significance of systematics. It records the diversity of organisms through descriptive taxonomic papers. The underlying basis of biodiversity is addressed directly and indirectly, through studies of taxonomic relationships, and of growth, form, adaptation and function, and through analysis and synthesis of biodiversity patterns in time and space, especially with respect to environmental and human factors. Coverage also includes relevant theory and methodology, and conservation biology.

Environment and Development Economics

Editor
Anastasios Xepapadeas
University of Crete, Greece

Published in association with the Beijer Institute of Ecological Economics, Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences

Environment and Development Economics is positioned at the intersection of environmental, resource and development economics. The Editor and Associate Editors, supported by a distinguished panel of advisors from around the world, aim to encourage submissions from researchers in the field in both developed and developing countries. The journal is divided into two main sections, Theory and Applications, which includes regular academic papers and Policy Options, which includes papers that may be of interest to the wider policy community. Environment and Development Economics also publishes Policy Fora (discussions based on a focal paper) and Book Reviews. From time to time the journal publishes special issues based on a particular theme. Recent special issues have included ‘Infectious Diseases’, edited by Simon Levin and Anastasios Xepapadeas, ‘Resilience’, edited by Charles Perrings, and ‘The Dynamics of Coupled Human and Natural Systems’ edited by John G. McPeak, David R. Lee and Christopher B. Barrett.

Journal of Pension Economics and Finance

Editors

Steven Haberman
Cass Business School, City University, UK

Moshe Milevsky
York University, Canada

J. Michael Orszag
Watson Wyatt, UK

The Journal of Pension Economics and Finance (JPEF) is the only academic journal focusing on the economics and finance of pensions and retirement income. The ageing population, together with the shrinking workforce, heralds a growing pensions crisis, which has become a key public policy issue in developed countries and elsewhere. JPEF provides a valuable and influential forum for international debate in this area.

The journal is co-sponsored by the International Organisation of Pension Supervisors (IOPS) and the OECD. JPEF publishes original research papers, covering a variety of topics, including pension fund management, the regulation of pensions, and pensions and labour markets. There is also an Issues & Policy section which includes papers reviewing the state of debate on current public policies and other major aspects of the pensions debate.

Anglo-Saxon England

Editors

Malcolm R. Godden
University of Oxford, UK

Simon Keynes
University of Cambridge, UK

Anglo-Saxon England is recognised internationally as the foremost regular publication in its field. In fact it is the only one which consistently embraces all the main aspects of study of Anglo-Saxon history and culture – linguistic, literary, textual, palaeographic, religious, intellectual, historical, archaeological and artistic – and which promotes the more unusual interests – in music or medicine or education, for example. Especially it seeks to exploit the advantages of a broadly based interdisciplinary approach. Each volume provides a systematic bibliography of all the works published in every branch of Anglo-Saxon studies during the preceding twelve months. The journal’s editorial board follows a strict policy of reviewing submissions, and invites contributions (in English) from experienced and promising scholars from anywhere in the world.

Central European History

Editor-in-Chief
Kenneth Ledford
Case Western Reserve University, USA

Associate Editor (Book Reviews)
Catherine Epstein
Amherst College, USA

Published for the Conference Group for Central European History of the American Historical Association

Central European History offers articles, review essays, and book reviews that range widely through the history of Germany, Austria, and other German-speaking regions of Central Europe from the medieval era to the present. All topics and approaches to history are welcome, whether cultural, social, political, diplomatic, intellectual, economic, and military history, as well as historiography and methodology. Contributions that treat new fields, such as post-1945 and post-1989 history, maturing fields such as gender history, and less-represented fields such as medieval history and the history of the Habsburg lands are especially desired. The journal thus aims to be the primary venue for scholarly exchange and debate among scholars of the history of Central Europe.

Contemporary European History covers the history of Eastern and Western Europe, including the United Kingdom, from 1918 to the present. By combining a wide geographical compass with a relatively short time span, the journal achieves both range and depth in its coverage. It is open to all forms of historical inquiry – including cultural, economic, international, political and social approaches – and welcomes comparative and transnational analysis. One issue per year explores a broad theme under the guidance of a guest editor. The 2008 theme issue will be on the topic of Peace and Governments in Twentieth-Century Europe. The journal regularly features contributions from scholars outside the Anglophone community and acts as a channel of communication between European historians throughout the continent and beyond it.

Continuity and Change aims to define a field of historical sociology concerned with long-term continuities and discontinuities in the structures of past societies. Emphasis is upon studies whose agenda or methodology combines elements from traditional fields such as history, sociology, law, demography, economics or anthropology, or ranges freely between them. There is a strong commitment to comparative studies over a broad range of cultures and time spans.

Published for the European Association for Banking History

Financial History Review is the international forum for all scholars with interests in the development of banking, finance and monetary matters. Its editors deliberately seek to embrace the broadest approach to publishing research findings within this growing historical specialism. Articles address all aspects of financial and monetary history, including technical and theoretical approaches, those derived from cultural and social perspectives and the interrelations between politics and finance. These presentations of current research are complemented by somewhat shorter pieces, specifically conceived as aids to research. Each issue contains a substantial review section, and every complete volume contains an annual bibliography.

Published for the Internationaal Instituut voor Sociale Geschiedenis

International Review of Social History, is one of the leading journals in its field. Truly global in its scope, it focuses on research in social and labour history from a comparative and transnational perspective, both in the modern and in the early modern period, and across periods. The journal combines quality, depth and originality of its articles with an open eye for theoretical innovation and new insights and methods from within its field and from contiguous disciplines. Besides research articles, it features surveys of new themes and subject fields, a suggestions and debates section, review essays and book reviews. It is esteemed for its annotated bibliography of social history titles, and also publishes an annual supplement of specially commissioned essays on a current theme. The 2008 supplement will be on the “return of the guilds”: contributors re-examine guilds within a international and transcontinental comparative framework and from the perspective of re-appraisal of the classic strict distinction between “capitalist” and “pre-capitalist” modes of production.

University of Durham, UK

The Journal of African History publishes articles and book reviews ranging widely over the African past, from the late Stone Age to the present. In recent years increasing prominence has been given to economic, cultural and social history and several articles have explored themes which are also of growing interest to historians of other regions such as: gender roles, demography, health and hygiene, propaganda, legal ideology, labour histories, nationalism and resistance, environmental history, the construction of ethnicity, slavery and the slave trade, and photographs as historical sources. Contributions dealing with pre-colonial historical relationships between Africa and the African diaspora are especially welcome, as are historical approaches to the post-colonial period.

Journal of Global History addresses the main problems of global change over time, together with the diverse histories of globalization. It also examines counter-currents to globalization, including those that have structured other spatial units. The journal seeks to transcend the dichotomy between ‘the West and the rest’, straddle traditional regional boundaries, relate material to cultural and political history, and overcome thematic fragmentation in historiography. The journal also acts as a forum for interdisciplinary conversations across a wide variety of social and natural sciences.

University of East Anglia, UK

Rural History is well known as a stimulating forum for interdisciplinary exchange. Its definition of rural history ignores traditional subject boundaries to encourage the cross-fertilisation that is essential for an understanding of rural society. It stimulates original scholarship and provides access to the best of recent research. While concentrating on the English-speaking world and Europe, the journal is not limited in geographical coverage. Subject areas include: agricultural history; historical ecology; folklore; popular culture and religion; rural literature; landscape history, archaeology and material culture; vernacular architecture; ethnography, anthropology and rural sociology; the study of women in rural societies; relationships between the urban and the rural; and the politics of rural societies. The journal accommodates varying disciplinary reference systems, and publishes book reviews and review articles.

Urban History occupies a central place in historical scholarship, with an outstanding record of interdisciplinary contributions, and a broad-based and distinguished panel of referees and international advisors. Each issue features wide-ranging research articles covering social, economic, political and cultural aspects of the history of towns and cities. The journal coverage is worldwide in its scope: over half of the articles are on non-British topics, with a very strong concentration on European cities. It has recently developed a new publishing venture, hosting innovative multimedia websites – including graphics, sound and interactive elements – to accompany selected print articles. The journal also includes book reviews, summaries of PhD theses, and surveys of recent articles in academic journals. In addition, Urban History acts as a forum for stimulating debate on historiographical and methodological issues. An indispensable tool for urban historians worldwide, the journal’s annual bibliography features on average over 1000 publications culled from monographs, edited collections and periodicals.

An official journal of the American Association for Applied Linguistics (AAAL)

Annual Review of Applied Linguistics reviews research in key areas in the broad field of applied linguistics. Each issue is thematic, covering the topic by means of critical summaries, overviews and bibliographic citations. Every fourth or fifth issue surveys applied linguistics broadly, offering timely essays on language learning and pedagogy, discourse analysis, teaching innovations, second language acquisition, computer-assisted instruction, language use in professional contexts, sociolinguistics, language policy, and language assessment, to name just a few of the areas reviewed. It provides over 500 new citations each year. The 2008 volume covers neurolinguistics and cognitive aspects of language processing, and its guest editor is Kees de Bot.

English Language and Linguistics, published three times a year, is an international journal which focuses on the description of the English language within the framework of contemporary linguistics. The journal is concerned equally with the synchronic and the diachronic aspects of English language studies and publishes articles of the highest quality which make a substantial contribution to our understanding of the structure and development of the English language and which are informed by a knowledge and appreciation of linguistic theory. English Language and Linguistics carries articles and short discussion papers or squibs on all core aspects of English, from its beginnings to the present day, including syntax, morphology, phonology, semantics, pragmatics, corpus linguistics and lexis. There is also a major review section including, from time to time, articles that give an overview of current research in particular specialist areas. The second issue each year is guest-edited and devoted to a special topic.

carries original articles, reviews, and notes on synchronic and diachronic issues pertaining to Germanic languages and dialects from the earliest phases to the present, including English (to 1500) and the extraterritorial varieties. Contributions are invited on the phonological, morphological, syntactic, and semantic analysis of these languages and dialects, as well as their historical development, both linguistic and textual. Especially welcome are contributions that address questions of interest to a broad range of scholars concerned with general issues in formal theory, sociolinguistics, and psycholinguistics.
The language of publication is normally English, though manuscripts in German will be considered.

The Journal of the Linguistics Association of Great Britain

Journal of Linguistics has as its goal to publish articles that make a clear contribution to current debate in all branches of theoretical linguistics. The journal also provides an excellent survey of recent linguistics publications, with around thirty book reviews in each volume and regular review articles on major works marking important theoretical advances.

‘The Journal of Linguistics is one of the top journals for theoretical linguistics. It’s chock full of new ideas and wonderfully free of theoretical orthodoxy.’
Ivan Sag, Stanford University

‘For the two decades that I’ve been a faithful reader of the Journal of Linguistics, I have been impressed by the consistent quality, breadth, and liveliness of its articles and reviews. JL neither specializes in one branch of linguistic theory to the neglect of others nor presents a single theoretical face to the world.’

Language Teaching

Surveys and Studies

Editors
Graeme Porte
University of Granada, Spain

Ewa Jaworska
University of Essex, UK

Language Teaching is a well-established and unique research resource for both professionals and students in the broad area of second and foreign language teaching and learning. Volume 41 (2008) marks a turning point in the journal’s history. While specially commissioned articles continue to survey up-to-date research on specific key topics, new strands of articles review recent second language acquisition and teaching research conducted in individual countries and also research on the teaching of languages other than English. There is a special series of plenary and keynote speeches from recent international conferences as well as annual reports from research groups around the world, including those from IATEFL, AAAL and BAAL. A further section is dedicated exclusively to empirical research papers which follow a replication approach in their methodology.

Language Variation and Change

Editors
William Labov
University of Pennsylvania, USA
Rena Torres Cacoullos
University of New Mexico, USA

The official journal of the annual New Ways of Analyzing Variation (NWAV) conference

Language Variation and Change is the only journal dedicated exclusively to the study of linguistic variation and the capacity to deal with systematic and inherent variation in synchronic and diachronic linguistics. Sociolinguistics involves analysing the interaction of language, culture and society; the more specific study of variation is concerned with the impact of this interaction on the structures and processes of traditional linguistics. Language Variation and Change concentrates on the details of linguistic structure in actual speech production and processing (or writing), including contemporary or historical sources.

Nordic Journal of Linguistics

Editors

Catherine O. Ringen
University of Iowa, USA

Sten Vikner
University of Aarhus, Denmark

Published for The Nordic Association of Linguists

The Nordic Journal of Linguistics is supported by the Nordic Publication Committee for Periodicals in the Humanities. The journal covers all branches of linguistics, with a special focus on issues related to the Nordic languages (including Finnish, Greenlandic and Saami) and on issues of general theoretical interest. The editors encourage submission of research articles, debate contributions and book reviews. One volume is published per calendar year, and each volume contains two issues, one of which is a thematic issue.

Phonology

Editors
Colin J. Ewen
University of Leiden, The Netherlands
Ellen M. Kaisse
University of Washington, USA

Phonology, published three times a year, is the only journal devoted exclusively to the discipline, and provides a unique forum for the productive interchange of ideas among phonologists and those working in related disciplines. Preference is given to papers which make a substantial theoretical contribution, irrespective of the particular theoretical framework employed, but the submission of papers presenting new empirical data of general theoretical interest is also encouraged. The journal carries research articles, as well as book reviews and shorter pieces on topics of current controversy within phonology.

The primary focus of ReCALL is the use of technologies for language learning and teaching, including all relevant aspects of research and development. Typical subjects for submissions include theoretical debate on language learning strategies and their influence on courseware design; practical applications at developmental stage; evaluative studies of courseware used in the teaching and learning process; exploitation and assessment of the potential of technological advances in the delivery of language learning materials; discussions of policy and strategy at institutional and discipline levels. ReCALL aims to appeal to researchers and practitioners in the area of computer-assisted and technology-enhanced language learning, normally but not exclusively operating in universities. It is also of interest to language teachers in secondary and tertiary education who may be considering the introduction of technologies into their teaching practice. A special issue, on Mobile Assisted Language Learning (MALL) is planned for September 2008, to be edited by Lesley Shield, Agnes Kukulska-Hulme and June Thompson.

Studies in Second Language Acquisition

Editor
Albert Valdman
Indiana University, USA

Associate Editor
Susan Gass
Michigan State University, USA

Studies in Second Language Acquisition is a refereed journal of international scope devoted to the scientific discussion of issues in second and foreign language acquisition of any language. Each volume contains four issues, one of which is generally devoted to a current topic in the field. The other three issues contain articles dealing with theoretical topics, some of which have broad pedagogical implications, and reports of quantitative and qualitative empirical research. Other rubrics include replication studies, State-of-the-Art articles, Notes and Discussion, review articles, book reviews, and book notices.

The Cambridge Law Journal

Editor
David J. Ibbetson
University of Cambridge, UK

Published for the Faculty of Law,
University of Cambridge

The Cambridge Law Journal publishes articles on all aspects of law. Special emphasis is placed on contemporary developments, but the journal’s range includes jurisprudence and legal history. An important feature of the journal is the Case and Comment section, in which members of the Cambridge Law Faculty and other distinguished contributors analyse recent judicial decisions, new legislation and current law reform proposals. The articles and case notes are designed to have the widest appeal to those interested in the law – whether as practitioners, students, teachers, judges or administrators – and to provide an opportunity for them to keep abreast of new ideas and the progress of legal reform. Each issue also contains an extensive section of book reviews.

Ecclesiastical Law Journal

Editor
Mark Hill
Cardiff University, UK

Published for The Ecclesiastical Law Society

Published three times a year in association with the Ecclesiastical Law Society, the journal publishes articles on all aspects of ecclesiastical law. Particular emphasis is given to the regulation of the Church of England and worldwide Anglican Communion, but the range of coverage includes comparative studies of the laws of other faiths and of the interface between law and religion in a global perspective. Through its regular Comment section, the Ecclesiastical Law Journal provides a critical analysis of emergent trends written by distinguished scholars and practitioners in Europe and North America. The journal also includes book reviews and summaries of recent ecclesiastical cases determined by both secular and church courts, together with a parliamentary report, a brief summary of the proceedings of national Synods, and resumés of major international conferences. From 2008 the journal will be increasing the number of pages published by more than 25%.

International and Comparative Law Quarterly

Editors
Catherine Redgwell
University College London, UK
Gillian Triggs
Director of BIICL, UK

Published for the British Institute of International and Comparative Law

International & Comparative Law Quarterly (ICLQ) publishes papers on public and private international law and also comparative law. It has maintained its pre-eminence as one of the earliest and most important journals of its kind, encompassing human rights and European law. The journal encourages innovative and original articles that explore the interconnectedness between the legal subject areas, moving across the boundaries that divide the law in a way that provides vital analysis at a time when formal distinctions, in scholarship and between jurisdictions, are becoming less relevant. The ICLQ attracts scholarship of the highest standard from around the world, which contributes to the maintenance of its truly international frame of reference. The ‘Shorter Articles, Comments, and Notes’ and ‘Current Developments’ sections particularly enable the discussion of highly topical legal issues.

International Journal of Cultural Property

Editor
Alexander A. Bauer
Princeton University, USA

Published for the International Cultural Property Society

International Journal of Cultural Property provides a vital, international, and multidisciplinary forum for the broad spectrum of views surrounding cultural property, cultural heritage, and related issues. Its mission is to develop new ways of dealing with cultural property debates, to be a venue for the proposal or enumeration of pragmatic policy suggestions, and to be accessible to a wide audience of professionals, academics, and lay readers. This peer-reviewed journal publishes original research papers, case notes, documents of record, chronicles, conference reports, and book reviews. Contributions come from the wide variety of fields implicated in the debates – law, anthropology, public policy, archaeology, art history, preservation, ethics, economics, museum-, tourism-, and heritage studies – and from a variety of perspectives and interests – indigenous, Western, and non-Western; academic, professional and amateur; consumers and producers – to promote meaningful discussion of the complexities, competing values, and other concerns that form the environment within which these disputes exist.

International Review of the Red Cross

Editor-in-Chief
Toni Pfanner
The International Committee of the Red Cross, Switzerland

Published for the International Committee of the Red Cross

The International Review of the Red Cross promotes reflection on humanitarian law, policy and action in armed conflict and other situations of collective armed violence. A specialized journal in humanitarian law, it endeavours to promote knowledge, critical analysis and development of the law and to contribute to the prevention of violations of rules protecting fundamental rights and values. The Review offers a forum for discussion about contemporary humanitarian action as well as analysis of the causes and characteristics of conflicts so as to give a clearer insight into the humanitarian problems they generate. Finally, the Review informs its readership on questions pertaining to the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement and in particular on the activities and policies of the Red Cross.

of International Law

General Editors

D. M. Curtin
Utrecht University, Netherlands

P. A. Nollkaemper
University of Amsterdam, Netherlands

Marketed and distributed for T.M.C. Asser Press

The Netherlands Yearbook of International Law has been published since 1970. It has two main aims. It offers a forum for the publication of scholarly articles of a more general nature in the area of public international law, including the law of the European Union. In addition, it responds to the demand for information on state practice in the field of international law. Each Yearbook therefore includes an overview of state practice in the Netherlands, with statements of the government, treaties, legislation, judicial decisions and literature.

World Trade Review

Editor
Douglas A. Irwin
Dartmouth College, Hanover, USA

The World Trade Review was established at the initiative of the Secretariat of the World Trade Organization (WTO) in close cooperation with Cambridge University Press. It is an independent journal – the Editor and all but one member of the Editorial Board are drawn from university faculties – that includes articles written from economic, legal, political and inter-disciplinary perspectives on issues of relevance to the multilateral trading system. Priority is given to papers that, along with being academically rigorous, are also accessible to government policy officials and the wider public. The journal also includes shorter articles seeking to rebut or challenge published papers.

Managing Editor
Avril McDonald
T. M. C. Asser Instituut, The Hague, Netherlands

Marketed and distributed for T.M.C. Asser Press

The Yearbook of International Humanitarian Law provides a truly international forum for high-quality, peer-reviewed articles, commentaries on current developments, reports on state practice, and documentation that have international humanitarian law as their focal point. All aspects of international law applicable during international and non-international armed conflicts are covered, in addition to interesting and significant developments in related fields, such as international peace and security, international criminal law, human rights law, disarmament law and refugee law, inter alia. Distinguished by its topicality and contemporary relevance, the Yearbook bridges the gap between theory and practice and serves as a useful reference tool for scholars, practitioners, military personnel, civil servants, diplomats, human rights workers and students.

Victorian Literature and Culture

Editors

John Maynard
New York University, USA

Adrienne Munich
State University of New York at Stony Brook, USA

Victorian Literature and Culture encourages high quality original work concerned with all areas of Victorian literature and culture, including music and the fine arts. The journal presents work at the cutting edge of current research, including exciting new studies in untouched subjects or new methodologies. Contributions are welcomed from internationally established scholars as well as younger members of the profession. Future Editors’ topics include ‘Food, Drink and the Victorians’ and ‘Victorian Natural History’. Review essays form a central part of the journal, and offer an authoritative view of important subjects together with a list of relevant works that serves as an up-to-date bibliography. The Works in Progress section allows the communication of parts of major works well in advance of their final publication. The Special Effects section allows publication of primary materials either previously unavailable or unknown to most readers.

Acta Numerica

Editor
Arieh Iserles
University of Cambridge, UK

This annual collection of review articles includes survey papers by leading researchers in numerical analysis and scientific computing. The papers present overviews of recent advances and provide state-of-the-art techniques and analysis. Covering the breadth of numerical analysis, articles are written in a style accessible to researchers at all levels and can serve as advanced teaching aids. Broad subject areas for inclusion are computational methods in linear algebra, optimization, ordinary and partial differential equations, approximation theory, stochastic analysis and nonlinear dynamical systems, as well as the application of computational techniques in science and engineering and the mathematical theory underlying numerical methods.

Cambridge Journals Online – journals.cambridge.org

Advancing research. Increasing access.

Cambridge Journals Online (CJO) is the dynamic electronic publishing service for Cambridge University Press’s collection of over 220 leading academic and practitioner journals in science, technology and medicine, the humanities and social sciences.

CJO has evolved over the last 10 years and is completely owned, designed, developed, hosted and supported in-house. Proceeds from our publishing programme are reinvested in the online platform: an advantage of Cambridge’s not-for-profit status.

A combination of our own expertise and a close working relationship with the library and research communities ensures an industry-leading online journals platform, which fully supports our constitutional goal: to facilitate the global dissemination of academic knowledge in all subjects.

Our development programme

Cambridge schedules three major releases of updated functionality each year. This enables us to develop a flexible service and ensures we can respond rapidly to requests for new features and functionality.
CJO is developed in conjunction with our users to give the best possible access to our content.

For Authors and Readers

- Free access to tables of content, abstracts and sample issues

Compositio Mathematica

Managing Editors
Bas Edixhoven
Leiden University, The Netherlands
Ben Moonen
University of Amsterdam, The Netherlands

Produced, marketed and distributed for the London Mathematical Society

Compositio Mathematica is a prestigious, well-established journal publishing first-class research papers that traditionally focus on the mainstream of pure mathematics. Compositio Mathematica has a broad scope which includes the fields of algebra, number theory, topology, algebraic and analytic geometry and (geometric) analysis. Papers on other topics are welcome if they are of broad interest. All contributions are required to meet high standards of quality and originality. Publications in this journal benefit from the added value of careful reviewing and editing. The journal has an international editorial board reflected in the journal content.

Compositio is owned and published by non-profit organisations (the Foundation Compositio Mathematica and the London Mathematical Society) that use any surplus income from journal subscriptions to sponsor mathematics and mathematical research.

University of Warwick, UK

Ergodic Theory and Dynamical Systems focuses on a rich variety of research areas which, although diverse, employ as common themes global dynamical methods. The journal provides a focus for this important and flourishing area of mathematics and brings together many major contributions in the field. The journal acts as a forum for central problems of dynamical systems and of interactions of dynamical systems with areas such as differential geometry, number theory, operator algebras, celestial and statistical mechanics, and biology.

From 2008 EJAM surveys will be expanded to cover Applied and Industrial Mathematics. Coverage of the journal will be strengthened in probabilistic applications, while still focussing on those areas of applied mathematics inspired by real-world applications, and at the same time fostering the development of theoretical methods with broad range of applicability. Survey papers contain reviews of emerging areas of mathematics, either in core areas or with relevance to users in industry and other disciplines. Research papers may be in any area of applied mathematics, with special emphasis on new mathematical ideas relevant to modelling and analysis in modern science and technology and the development of interesting mathematical methods of wide applicability. Since 2005 EJAM has published incrementally online, with traditional print publication proceeding as usual.

Institut de mathematiques de Jussieu, France

Published for the Institute of Mathematics of Jussieu

Journal of the Institute of Mathematics of Jussieu covers all domains in pure mathematics. It includes important research articles from areas such as operator algebra, number theory, algebraic and Lie groups, differential and symplectic geometry, partial differential equations, Banach spaces, potential theory, mathematical physics, probability, logic, differential equations. The journal readily accepts articles in all languages though the standard is English, and its international editorial board naturally draws upon the broad expertise of the highly prestigious Jussieu Mathematical Institute in Paris.

LMS Journal of Computation and Mathematics

Editor-in-Chief
Professor John E. Cremona
University of Warwick, UK

Published by the London Mathematical Society

LMS Journal of Computation and Mathematics is an electronic-only resource that publishes papers on the computational aspects of mathematics, mathematical aspects of computation, and papers in mathematics which benefit from being published electronically. Rapid times to publication ensures that readers are kept abreast of ground-breaking developments fast and, while the main text of each paper is guaranteed to remain unaltered, the journal’s format enables users to add updates and discussions to papers encouraging more interactivity. Hyperlinks are also provided for cross-references within and between papers. The journal is refereed to the same high standard as the established LMS journals, and carries a commitment from the LMS to keep it archived into the indefinite future. Access is free until further notice.

Mathematical Proceedings of the Cambridge Philosophical Society

Editor
G. P. Paternain
University of Cambridge, UK

Published for the Cambridge Philosophical Society

Mathematical Proceedings is one of the few high-quality journals publishing original research papers that cover the whole range of pure and applied mathematics, theoretical physics and statistics. All branches of pure mathematics are covered, in particular logic and foundations, number theory, algebra, geometry, algebraic and geometric topology, classical and functional analysis, differential equations, probability and statistics. On the applied side, mechanics, mathematical physics, relativity and cosmology are included.

journals.cambridge.org/psp
The primary focus of the journal is on stochastic modelling in the physical and engineering sciences, with particular emphasis on queueing theory, reliability theory, inventory theory, simulation, mathematical finance and probabilistic networks and graphs. Papers on analytic properties and related disciplines are also considered, as well as more general papers on applied and computational probability, if appropriate. Readers include academics working in statistics, operations research, computer science, engineering, management science and physical sciences as well as industrial practitioners engaged in telecommunications, computer science, financial engineering, operations research and management science.

The Review of Symbolic Logic

Co-ordinating Editor
Aldo Antonelli
University of California, Irvine, USA

Published for the Association of Symbolic Logic

A new venture between the Association of Symbolic Logic and Cambridge University Press, The Review of Symbolic Logic is designed to cultivate and promote exciting new fields of investigation on the borders of logic, philosophy, mathematics and computer science:
• Philosophical logic and its applications
• History and philosophical of logic
• Philosophy and methodology of mathematics

The Review will provide a natural home for innovative work on these important and interconnected areas. It will join the Journal of Symbolic Logic and the Bulletin of Symbolic Logic as the third official organ of the Association.

Health Economics, Policy and Law

Editors-in-Chief
Adam Oliver
London School of Economics and Political Science, UK
Elias Mossialos
London School of Economics and Political Science, UK

International trends highlight the confluence of economics, politics and legal considerations in the health policy process. Health Economics, Policy and Law serves as a forum for scholarship on health policy issues from these perspectives, and will be of use to academics, policy makers and health care managers and professionals. HEPL is international in scope, publishing both theoretical and applied work, with articles on all aspects of health policy. Considerable emphasis is placed on rigorous conceptual development and analysis, and on the presentation of empirical evidence that is relevant to the policy process.

International Journal of Technology Assessment in Health Care

Editor
Egon Jonsson
University of Alberta and Institute of Health Economics, Alberta, Canada

Official journal of Health Technology Assessment International (HTAi)

The International Journal of Technology Assessment in Health Care serves as a forum for researchers, health policy makers, and professionals interested in the medical, social, ethical, and economic implications of the diffusion and use of both established and new health technology. Health technology assessment covers essentially all issues of relevance to health policy and practice including systematic reviews, methodological developments in evaluative research, and the impact of health technology on organization and management of health care systems and public health. In addition to general essays and research reports, thematic sections are published.

Primary Health Care Research & Development

Editors-in-Chief
Sally Kendall
University of Hertfordshire, UK
Rosamund Bryar
City University, UK

Primary Health Care Research & Development is the first journal aimed specifically at both researchers and practitioners in primary health care, bridging the gap between the two areas. It provides a forum for the publication of international, interdisciplinary research and development in primary health care. It is essential reading for all involved in primary care: nurse practitioners, GPs and health service managers; professional and local groups in community health; researchers and academics; purchasers of primary health care services; allied health practitioners in secondary services and health-related consumer groups.

Cardiology in the Young

Editor-in-Chief
Edward J. Baker
Guy's & St Thomas' NHS Foundation Trust, London, UK

Cardiology in the Young is devoted to cardiovascular issues affecting the young, and the older patient suffering the sequels of congenital heart disease, or other cardiac diseases acquired in childhood. The journal serves the interests of all professionals concerned with these topics. By design, the journal is international and multidisciplinary in its approach, and members of the editorial board take an active role in its mission, helping to make it the essential journal in paediatric cardiology. All aspects of paediatric cardiology are covered within the journal. The content includes original articles, brief reports, editorials, reviews, and papers devoted to continuing professional development. High-quality colour figures are published on a regular basis, and without charge to the authors. Regular supplements are published containing the abstracts of the annual meetings of the Association for European Paediatric Cardiology, and the proceedings of the meetings organised annually by the Children's Heart Institute of Florida, and Children's Hospital of Philadelphia. The editorial team is currently looking to expand the number of Supplements published each year. These are supplied free to subscribers.

Cambridge Opera Journal

Editors
Mary Ann Smart
University of California, Berkeley, USA
Emanuele Senici
University of Oxford, UK

For twenty years Cambridge Opera Journal has been the pre-eminent forum for scholarship on opera in all its manifestations. The journal publishes essays not only on all aspects of the European operatic tradition, but also on American opera and musical theatre, on non-Western music theatres, on contemporary opera production, and on the theory and historiography of opera. Carefully researched and often illustrated with music examples and pictures, articles adopt a wide spectrum of critical approaches. As well as major articles, each issue includes reviews of recent important publications in the field.

Tempo

Editor
Calum MacDonald
Glouestershire, UK

Tempo is the premier English-language journal devoted to 20th-century and contemporary concert music. Literate and scholarly articles, often illustrated with music examples, explore many aspects of the work of composers throughout the world. Written in an accessible style, approaches range from the narrative to the strictly analytical. Tempo frequently ventures outside the acknowledged canon to reflect the diversity of the modern music scene. Issues feature interviews with leading composers, a tabulated news section, and lively and wide-ranging reviews of recent recordings, books and first performances around the world. Selected issues also contain specially-commissioned music supplements.

twentieth-century music

Editor-in-Chief
Christopher Mark
University of Surrey, UK

Editor
Allan Moore
University of Surrey, UK

twentieth-century music is a unique publication dedicated to leading research on all aspects of the music of the twentieth century – a period which may be interpreted flexibly to encompass music from the late-nineteenth century to the early years of the twenty-first. The journal explores Western art music, music from non-Western traditions, popular music, film music, jazz, improvised music and performance practice. Whilst it does not style itself as revisionist, the journal is guided by the principle that existing assumptions about twentieth-century music and the ways in which it has been and is currently studied should be rigorously examined and re-examined.

Visual Neuroscience

An international journal for experimental and theoretical research

Editor-in-Chief
Benjamin E. Reese
University of California, Santa Barbara, USA

Visual Neuroscience is an international journal devoted to the publication of high-quality reports of experimental and theoretical research in basic visual neuroscience. A major goal of publication is to bring together in one journal a broad range of studies that reflect the diversity and originality of contemporary research on neural mechanisms of vision. Contributions deal with molecular, cellular and systems-level processes in both vertebrate and invertebrate species. Studies based exclusively on clinical, psychophysical or behavioral data will also be considered if they address questions concerning neural mechanisms of vision.

Published for the Royal Institute of Philosophy

Philosophy is the journal of the Royal Institute of Philosophy, which was founded in 1925 to build bridges between specialist philosophers and a wider educated public. The journal continues to fulfil a dual role: it is one of the leading academic journals of philosophy, but it also serves the philosophical interests of specialists in other fields (law, language, literature and the arts, medicine, politics, religion, science, education, psychology, history) and those of the general reader. Contributors are required to avoid needless technicality of language and presentation. Each issue contains an editorial on a topic of philosophical or public interest, and a ‘New Books’ section. Recent contributors to Philosophy have included Michael Dummett, Noam Chomsky, Jurgen Habermas, David Wiggins, Graham Priest, Mary Midgley, P.M.S. Hacker, Jerrold Levinson and Mary Warnock. The institutional subscription includes two supplements and a subscription to Think (see page 192).

Published for The Social Philosophy and Policy Foundation

Social Philosophy and Policy is an interdisciplinary journal with an emphasis on the philosophical underpinnings of enduring social policy debates. The issues are thematic in format, examining a specific area of concern with contributions from scholars in different disciplines, especially philosophy, economics, political science and law. While not primarily a journal of policy prescriptions, some articles in each issue will typically connect theory with practice. The 2008 issues are ‘Objectivism, Subjectivism, and Relativism in Ethics’ and ‘Freedom of Association’. The 2009 issues will be ‘Aggregation in Moral and Political Philosophy’ and ‘Environmentalism’.

Special sales

Reprint sales

Cambridge University Press can provide rapid exposure of your products and scientific research to a specific group of clinicians by means of Commercial Reprints. High quality reprints can be ordered in bulk. These reprints can be produced as straight article reprints or with custom designed covers and, if required, the sponsor’s name printed on or inside the cover for your distribution to key decision-makers and opinion formers.

Supplements

Supplements offer the opportunity to publish and communicate your research and findings within a prestigious journal.

Supplements are usually based on the proceedings of meetings or collection of manuscripts that are published through the financial support of non-profit organizations, government agencies, pharmaceutical companies, device and equipment companies, or medical education companies. Supplements are mailed with the journal to the subscriber/membership base and with the option of ordering additional quantities for your use.

Publishing a sponsored supplement offers a cost effective method of reaching a target audience of professionals and the supplements are available online on the journal’s home websites.
Advertising Sales

With over 220 titles to choose from, our extensive list of journals ensures you will always find your suitable target audience. Our journals span over 30 subject areas, ranging from Agriculture, Archaeology & Anthropology and Nutrition to Psychology and Cognitive Science, Religion and Social Studies. Think

Philosophy for everyone

Editor
Stephen Law
Heythrop College, University of London, UK

Published for the Royal Institute of Philosophy

Think has been created to forge a direct link between contemporary philosophy and the widest possible readership. The central aim of the journal is to provide to a very wide audience – encompassing undergraduates, ‘A’ level students, students in further education and the general public – highly accessible and engaging writing by philosophers pre-eminent in their fields. Think also aims to counter the popular impression that philosophy is pointless and wholly detached from everyday life. Its contributors sometimes expose some of the bad philosophy which currently passes as accepted wisdom in certain circles (e.g. religious, scientific, anthropological, etc). Perhaps most importantly, Think gives contemporary philosophers the chance to help nurture and encourage philosophers of the next generation.

Think is available free to institutional subscribers of Philosophy (see page 187).

1956–1996

Editor
Stephen H. Davis
Northwestern University, USA

The Journal of Fluid Mechanics Digital Archive is a repository of every single article published in the Journal of Fluid Mechanics between 1956 and 1996. It houses over a quarter of a million pages of material, reproduced as high-resolution PDFs, and is fully searchable and reference linked. The Archive marks the complete digitisation of the Journal of Fluid Mechanics, with all material from 1997 onwards available through Cambridge Journals Online.

The archive contains over 10,000 articles across 250,000 fully searchable high-resolution PDF pages. Volumes 1–329 are included – 640 issues in total from 40 years of publishing.

The progress made over the last 50 years has been astonishing, attracting to the field an enormous array of talented scientists and engineers worldwide. These brilliant people have been attracted because of the beauty of the subject, its visual allure and complexity.

Plant Genetic Resources
Characterization and Utilization

Editor-in-Chief
Robert Koebner
Norwich, UK

Published on behalf of the National Institute of Agricultural Botany (NIAB)

Plant Genetic Resources is an international journal that brings together the many diverse topics concerned with the genetic resources of all crop species. Each issue provides access to peer-reviewed research papers on genetic variation in plants, both crop and non-crop, as well as on the technical, socio-economic, legal and geo-political aspects of plant genetic resources. Many papers feature research directed to endangered non-crop and medicinal plants. The journal is aimed at researchers and scientists interested in diversity, crop science, plant genetics, plant breeding and all those with a broad interest in germplasm, such as policy makers, consultants and research students.

The Journal of Public Policy applies social science theories and concepts to significant political, economic and social issues and to the ways in which public policies are made. Its articles deal with topics of concern to public policy scholars in America, Europe, Japan and other advanced industrial nations. The journal often publishes articles that cut across disciplines, such as environmental issues, international political economy, regulatory policy and European Union processes. Its peer reviewers come from up to a dozen social science disciplines and countries across three continents, thus ensuring both analytic rigour and accuracy in reference to national and policy context. In 2008 there will be a special issue on new modes of governance and the shadow of hierarchy, edited by Adrienne Heritier and Dirk Lehmkuhl.

Read centuries of publishing from Cambridge Journals!

Introducing Cambridge Journals Digital Archives (CJDA)

Cambridge Journals is creating online archives for titles we’ve published, back to Volume 1, Number 1 – in some cases, over a century of content.

Over the next 18–24 months, searchable PDFs, including bibliographic headers, linkable references, journal covers and supplemental materials will be made available.

This unique resource will be available by single journal title, as subject-based collections, and in its entirety. The entire collection will contain:

- over 200 journals
- over 20,000 issues
- over 350,000 articles
- over 3 million pages
- over 8 million linked references

journals.cambridge.org
Cambridge Journals Digital Archives will be accessible via Cambridge Journals Online, which already contains journal volumes back to 1997.

Archives already available:

Coming in 2008:

- CJDA: Economics (6 titles)
- CJDA: History (30 titles)
- CJDA: Law (16 titles)
- CJDA: Mathematics and Computer Sciences (13 titles)
- CJDA: Politics (18 titles)
- Cardiology in the Young (Vols. 1–10, 1991–2000)
- Parasitology (Vols. 1–113, 1908–1996)

Behavioural and Cognitive Psychotherapy

Editor
Paul M Salkovskis
Institute of Psychiatry, London, UK

Published for the British Association for Behavioural and Cognitive Psychotherapies (BABCP)

Behavioural and Cognitive Psychotherapy is an international multidisciplinary journal aimed primarily at members of the helping and teaching professions. Published five times annually, the journal features original research papers, covering both experimental and clinical work, that contribute to the theory, practice and evolution of cognitive and behaviour therapy. Under the guidance of an international editorial team, Behavioural and Cognitive Psychotherapy aims to reflect and influence the continuing changes in the concepts, methodology, and techniques of behavioural and cognitive psychotherapy. A particular feature of the journal is its broad ranging scope – both in terms of topics and types of study covered. Behavioural and Cognitive Psychotherapy encompasses most areas of human behaviour and experience, and represents many different research methods, from randomized controlled trials to detailed case studies. It also includes reviews of recently published literature in this field. The journal has recently emphasised investigations relevant to NICE guidelines and the dissemination of evidence based psychology therapies.

The British Association for Behavioural and Cognitive Psychotherapies (BABCP)

The Cognitive Behaviour Therapist is a new interdisciplinary peer-reviewed journal launching in 2008, which is aimed primarily at cognitive behavioural practitioners within the helping and teaching professions. Published quarterly, the journal features papers covering clinical and professional issues, which contribute to the theory, practice and evolution of the cognitive and behavioural therapies. The journal will publish papers that describe new developments; articles that are practice focussed and detail clinical interventions, research reports concerning the practice of cognitive behaviour therapy, detailed case reports, audits that are relevant to practice, and reviews of clinical scales. The journal will publish papers that have an education, training or supervision focus. It will also include reviews of recently published literature that is directly relevant to practitioners. A particular feature of the journal is that its electronic nature is designed to ensure timeliness of publication and professional debate whilst also ensuring rigorous standards in the dissemination of high-quality materials with relevance to the practice of the cognitive and behaviour therapies.

The International Journal of Neuropsychopharmacology

Editor-in-Chief
Bernard Lerer
Hadassah – Hebrew University Medical Centre, Israel

The official scientific journal of the Collegium Internationale Neuro-Psychopharmacologicum

The International Journal of Neuropsychopharmacology (IJNP) serves as a major forum for the rapid publication and wide dissemination of high quality, influential research in neuropsychopharmacology, in the basic and clinical domains. The central focus of the journal is on research which advances understanding of existing and new neuropsychopharmacological agents, including their mode of action and clinical application, or which provides insights into the biological basis of neuropsychiatric disorders and thereby advances their pharmacological treatment. Such research might derive from the full spectrum of biological and psychological fields of inquiry, encompassing classical and novel techniques in neuropsychopharmacology, as well as strategies such as neuroimaging, genetics, psycho-neuroendocrinology and neuropsychology. IJNP's rapid publication policy is facilitated by web-based submission and review, and the journal publishes the definitive versions of papers online, ahead of the printed issues. All papers are indexed in PubMed and Thomson Scientific Journal Citation Reports.

Journal of Psychiatric Intensive Care

Editor-in-Chief
Roland Dix
Wotton Lawn Hospital, Gloucester, UK

Deputy Editor
Jim Laidlaw
Wotton Lawn Hospital, Gloucester, UK

Published for the National Association of Psychiatric Intensive Care Units

The Journal of Psychiatric Intensive Care is devoted to issues affecting the care and treatment of people with mental disorders who manifest severely disturbed mental or behavioural functioning. The journal is international and multi-disciplinary in its approach. It serves the interest of all professionals concerned with these topics whether they work in Psychiatric Intensive Care Units (PICUs), Low Secure Units, Challenging Behaviour, Emergency Psychiatry, Intensive Treatments or in other parts of the wider mental health system. All aspects of psychiatric intensive care are covered within the journal that seeks to encourage informed debate and exchange of opinion and thereby become the essential journal in this field. The content of the journal includes editorials, original articles, brief reports, reviews, conference reports, news and notices. Preference is given to original research of a high scientific quality.

Journal of the International Neuropsychological Society

Editor-in-Chief
Kathleen Y. Haaland
NM VA Healthcare System, Albuquerque, USA

Published for the International Neuropsychological Society

JINS publishes peer-reviewed articles covering all areas of neuropsychology with either an experimental or clinical focus. Original research with an option for fast, short communications, and critical reviews and dialogues that make a theoretical contribution to the field are published. Contributions reflect the interest of all areas of neuropsychology, including but not limited to development of cognitive processes; brain–behavior relationships; adult and child neuropsychology; disorders of speech and language; and very importantly, the interface of neuropsychology with related areas, such as behavioral neurology and neuropsychiatry, including studies that utilize functional imaging.

BioSocieties

Managing Editor
Filippa Lentzos
London School of Economics, UK

Editors
Ilina Singh and Nikolas Rose
London School of Economics, UK
Anne Harrington
Harvard University, USA

Published for London School of Economics and Political Science

BioSocieties is an innovative new journal in the social sciences, dedicated to advancing analytic understanding of the social, ethical, legal, economic, public and policy aspects of current and emerging developments in the life sciences. These include genomics, neuroscience, psychopharmacology, biomedical and reproductive technologies, and biosecurity.

As the first journal of its kind, BioSocieties publishes scholarship across the social science disciplines, and represents a lively and balanced array of perspectives on controversial issues. In its first two years BioSocieties demonstrated the constructive potential of interdisciplinary dialogue and debate across the social and natural sciences. It is becoming the journal of choice not only for social scientists, but also for life scientists interested in the larger social, ethical and policy implications of their work.

BioSocieties is published quarterly, with occasional themed issues that highlight some of the critical questions and problematics of modern biotechnologies. Articles, response pieces, book reviews, and self-standing editorial pieces by social and life scientists form a regular part of the journal.

Journal of Social Policy

Editors
Jan Pahl
University of Kent, UK
Emma Wincup
University of Leeds, UK

A Journal of the Social Policy Association

The Journal of Social Policy carries high-quality articles on all aspects of social policy in an international context. It places particular emphasis upon articles which seek to contribute to debates on the future direction of social policy, to present new empirical data, to advance theories, or to analyse issues in the making and implementation of social policies.

The Journal of Social Policy is part of the ‘Social Policy Package’, which also includes Social Policy and Society and the Social Policy Digest. An online resource, the Social Policy Digest, was launched in 2003. The Digest provides a regularly up-dated, fully searchable, summary of policy developments and research findings across the whole range of social policy.

A Journal of the Social Policy Association

Social Policy and Society is an international academic journal sponsored by the UK Social Policy Association. The journal welcomes stimulating original articles that draw upon contemporary policy-related research and associated developments in the social sciences. Each issue contains peer-reviewed articles reflecting topical debates and issues within social policy and uniquely, a themed section, edited by a Guest Editor(s). Every themed section includes an introductory piece, a set of peer-reviewed articles, a selected review of the key literature, plus a guide to key sources in the area.

All articles need to be of a high academic quality and should also be accessible to a wide readership which includes policymakers, academic staff and students within and beyond the United Kingdom.

Social Policy and Society is part of the ‘Social Policy Package’ – also including the Online Digest and the Journal of Social Policy.

Customer Services

The Customer Services Departments in Cambridge and New York provide a global service for our customers. Our aim is to exceed our customers’ expectations.

Our responsibilities include:

- order processing
- resolving enquiries
- claims management
- online subscription management
- renewal management
- membership services
- system development
- distribution

Our Customer Services Representatives are empowered, enabling them to resolve any issue or respond positively to any customer request. Their supervisors train, coach and support staff on an ongoing basis to ensure that they have the required expertise, particularly in system developments.

There is a Journals Manager in each Customer Services Department who is responsible for the direct management and representation for journals within Customer Services.

Renewal Subscriptions

We co-ordinate the creation and processing of all renewal subscriptions, sending initial renewal invoices in September each year followed by five subsequent reminder invoices. Electronic renewal files are sent to Subscription Agents enabling us to process renewal orders promptly and efficiently.

We store end-user address information for all subscriptions sent to consolidation addresses to ensure that clear geographic analysis of subscribers is available by our marketing departments.
Membership Subscriptions

We provide varied types of membership services for any Societies associated with our journal publications; for further details please contact the relevant Customer Services Department (contact details are on the following pages).

Online Publishing

Full details and help topics are provided on our Cambridge Journals Online website, however our Customer Services team are available to assist with troubleshooting enquiries about online access from Institutions or Individuals/Members.

When a paid subscription is processed on our in house publishing computer system an email or letter is automatically sent to the customer, confirming receipt of the order and advising the customer how to activate their subscription online and access the published issues.

Distribution

The cost of despatch of the journal issues is included in the subscription price.

Journals produced in the US are despatched directly from the printers for all global subscribers and journals produced in the UK are mailed globally from our designated UK Distributor.

We have the facility to include up to three advertisements or promotional flyers, which are inserted into the journal issues for distribution direct to the end customers.
Environmental Policy

At Cambridge University Press we recognise that we have a responsibility to the environment and to future generations, to manage and continually improve our environmental performance at every stage of our operations.

We recognise that our activities, products or services may have an impact on the environment. It is our aim to reduce that impact to a minimum, by implementing an effective system for managing our environmental aspects.

By regularly assessing the significance of our interactions with the environment, we will set objectives and targets relating to our operations. In particular we will continually strive to:

- Prevent or reduce pollution, wherever practicable
- Minimise consumption of natural resources and energy
- Reduce, reuse or recycle wastes
- Comply with applicable regulatory and other requirements
- Adopt best available techniques in our operations and activities where feasible
- Promote our environmental policy among our employees, our suppliers, our customers, our local community, our University and others in our industry.

This policy applies to all Cambridge University Press’s activities, products and services and is reviewed on a regular basis.

Stephen Bourne
Chief Executive
ISO 14001:2004

Cambridge University Press is delighted to announce that as of September 2007 our UK operations in both publishing and printing have been awarded ISO 14001:2004 certification.

ISO 14001:2004 is the internationally recognised environmental standard for an environmental management system (EMS). Implementation involves everyone in the organisation, from board level down to the shop floor, and all aspects of the organisation that could affect the environment are thoroughly vetted by professional external auditors. Cambridge performed far beyond environmental compliance in matters such as the minimisation of waste, recycling of various types of materials and an overall reduction of costs and inefficiencies. Control over our energy and materials inputs, and waste minimization, help us keep costs and prices reasonable to the scholarly communities we serve.

Achieving this standard not only sets Cambridge aside from our competitors, it has helped improve our environmental performance in many ways.

Sustainable printing

Cambridge’s paper supplies have also been subject to continuing review from a forestry-management point of view. Cambridge Printing has certification from the two major schemes, FSC and PEFC, and is now achieving levels of traceably sustainable sourcing that are among the best in the UK printing industry. We also use B1 waterless printing within our printing process, which eliminates the use of alcohol (one of the more hazardous chemicals).

About this catalogue

This catalogue has been printed using vegetable-oil-based inks on FSC-accredited 9Lives 80 Silk, produced with 80% recovered fibre (comprising 10% packaging waste, 10% best white waste and 60% de-inked waste fibre) and 20% virgin total chlorine free fibre sourced from sustainable forests.

Canada
Subscribers in Canada should note that we must charge GST.

Individual subscriptions
Certain journals have reduced rates for individuals, members of affiliated societies or students. Individuals wishing to take advantage of these rates must certify that the subscription is for personal use only, order directly from Cambridge University Press, and prepay by personal cheque or credit card. Students must provide verification of enrolment, such as a photocopy of a student ID card or letter from a tutor. We regret that these concessionary rates do not apply through agents or booksellers.

Despatch
The subscription price quoted includes delivery by air where appropriate.

Change of address
It is very important to notify Cambridge University Press promptly should your mailing address change or if there is an error in our labelling. Please give four weeks’ advance notice and be sure to include the journal title and your former mailing address as well as the new address. Please quote your customer number or include your complete mailing label with any correspondence.

Claims and cancellations policy
Claims for non-receipt of issues should be made within six months of the publication date, or upon receipt of the next issue, whichever is the sooner. Please note that, while every effort is made to maintain the advertised publication schedule, it may sometimes not be possible to despatch an issue in the month for which it had been advertised. No refunds of subscriptions will be made after the first issue of the year has been despatched.

Back volumes
Prices for back volumes (subject to availability) are provided upon request. Please contact the appropriate Cambridge University Press office for further details. In certain cases, other suppliers provide back volumes.

Course adoption and special sales
Frequently a Cambridge journal issue, such as a topical special issue or a general survey issue, is particularly suited for course adoption. Whenever possible, Cambridge University Press will offer substantial discounts on bulk purchases for course adoption and for promotional purposes. Please contact the appropriate Cambridge University Press office for further information.
Sample copies and brochures
Free sample copies are gladly supplied to librarians, subject to availability, for journals with three or more issues per year. Brochures giving more information are also available upon request.
