ITHAKA
OUR MISSION

ITHAKA is a not-for-profit organization that helps the academic community use digital technologies to preserve the scholarly record and to advance research and teaching in sustainable ways.

We pursue this mission by providing three innovative services that aid in the adoption of these technologies and create lasting impact: JSTOR, Portico, and Ithaka S+R.
ITHAKA

ITHAKA is a not-for-profit organization that helps the academic community use digital technologies to preserve the scholarly record and to advance research and teaching in sustainable ways.

JSTOR is a not-for-profit digital library of academic journals, books, and primary sources.

Ithaka S+R is a not-for-profit research and consulting service that helps academic, cultural, and publishing communities thrive in the digital environment.

Portico is a not-for-profit preservation service for digital publications, including electronic journals, books, and historical collections.
JSTOR was created in 1995 to help libraries address cost issues and save on shelf space.

JSTOR helped libraries to repurpose space, share the costs of digital storage and preservation, and spread access for users.

Since JSTOR’s launch in 1997, we have continued to expand the platform, adding current journals, books, and primary sources.
JSTOR
WHERE ARE WE TODAY?

More than 9,000 libraries from 170+ countries currently provide access to JSTOR.

Content has been consistently added since JSTOR’s launch. More than 50 million pages of journal content are now available and preserved.
ARCHIVAL JOURNALS

More than 2,000 academic journals across the humanities, social sciences, and sciences—all hosted on a powerful research and teaching platform.

about.jstor.org/journals
ARCHIVAL JOURNALS
WHAT’S INCLUDED?

All issues, from volume 1, issue 1, are provided for every journal up to the moving wall, including all previous and related titles.

Each journal has a "moving wall," defined as a time lag between the most current issue published and the content available on JSTOR. Most archival journals have moving walls of between 3 and 5 years, but publishers may elect walls anywhere from zero to 10 years.
Archival journal fees have not increased since 1997.

Content is added to collections each year. In economic terms, this means that the cost per page for the JSTOR archive collections decreases every year.
DECREASING COST PER PAGE:

Cost per Page by Year: Arts & Sciences I at U.S. Medium Institution
There are two types of fees invoiced for archival journal collections:

Archive Capital Fee (ACF)
A one-time fee per collection, invoiced when access starts.

Annual Access Fee (AAF)
A recurring fee invoiced on a calendar year basis.

The ACF ensures that JSTOR has the necessary resources to migrate data and software systems as technology evolves. The AAF covers the costs of maintenance, user services, and administration to support collections in JSTOR.
More than two million primary sources across four collections, supporting research and teaching in the humanities, social sciences, and sciences.
PRIMARY SOURCES

GLOBAL PLANTS
Global Plants is a community-contributed database and an essential resource for research and teaching in botany, ecology, and conservation studies.

Content includes: More than two million objects, including high-resolution type specimens as well as reference works and primary sources such as correspondences, diaries, illustrations, and photographs

Related disciplines: Biological Sciences, Botany & Plant Sciences, Ecology & Evolutionary Biology, History of Science

19th CENTURY BRITISH PAMPHLETS
This collection chronicles the political and socioeconomic issues behind the great 19th-century debates and controversies, with nine sub-collections that span topics such as universal suffrage, colonial affairs, and educational reform.

Content includes: More than 25,000 pamphlets, including advertisements, annotations, cartoons, diagrams and maps, engravings, letters, petitions, and portraits

Related disciplines: History, Political Science, British Studies

STRUGGLES FOR FREEDOM IN SOUTHERN AFRICA
This collection documents the liberation movements in six southern African countries, addressing topics such as colonial rule, dispersion of exiles, and international intervention.

Content includes: More than 26,000 objects, including oral histories, speeches, nationalist publications, fully digitized books, and pamphlets

Related disciplines: History, Political Science, Law, African Studies, International Relations, Economics

AFRICAN CULTURAL HERITAGE SITES AND LANDSCAPES
This collection brings together visual, contextual, and spatial documentation of African heritage sites and rock art sites.

Content includes: More than 85,000 objects, including photographs, 3D models, GIS data sets, site plans, aerial and satellite photography, excavation reports, travelogues, and other scholarly material

Related disciplines: Anthropology, Archaeology, Art & Art History, African Studies, Architecture & Architectural History, Language & Literature, Folklore, History, Geography
AFRICAN CULTURAL HERITAGE SITES AND LANDSCAPES

Uncover cultural heritage sites of Africa with high-quality images, writings, and 3D models.

85,000+ primary source objects from sites and landscapes including Lalibela, Ethiopia; Timbuktu, Mali; and Elmina, Ghana.

Collection includes:
Photographs
Rare slides
Excavation notes
Visual archives of African rock art

Many documented locations are designated by UNESCO as World Heritage Sites.

The collection supports research across disciplines on JSTOR, including African Studies, Anthropology, Archaeology, Art & Art History, Folklore, Language & Literature, Geography, History, and Architecture.
STRUGGLES FOR FREEDOM IN SOUTHERN AFRICA

Chronicle the colonial resistance movements in 20th-century southern Africa.

26,000+ documents span the liberation struggles of Angola, Botswana, Mozambique, Namibia, South Africa, and Zimbabwe, among other countries.

Collection includes:
Nationalist publications
Colonial government reports
Newspaper articles
Personal papers and correspondences
Books, pamphlets, reports, and speeches
Oral histories

Content contributors range from Digital Innovation South Africa (DISA) to libraries and archives from Mozambique, Namibia, and beyond.

19TH CENTURY BRITISH PAMPHLETS

Trace political and socioeconomic issues behind the great 19th-century debates and controversies.

25,000+ pamphlets, one million pages, and nine sub-collections about key political, social, technological, and environmental issues of their day.

Topics include:
Universal suffrage
Anglican church affairs and Catholic emancipation
Colonial affairs
Finance and taxation
Education and legal reform
Materials about South America, the Near East, and Australasia

Consists of advertisements, annotations, cartoons, diagrams and maps, engravings, letters, petitions, and portraits.

GLOBAL PLANTS
Herbaria preserve plant specimens. Their collections act as a historical record of changes in various flora.

Along with plant specimens, some herbaria also have special collections that include explorers’ records and notes, paintings, and photographs.
GLOBAL PLANTS
TYPE SPECIMEN
OVERVIEW

Plant type specimens are vouchers for scientific plant names. As such, they are the essential reference object for a name.

They are used primarily for the study of botany, particularly plant taxonomy, as a reference object to name and identify plants.

Ecologists and plant ecologists use them to help identify a large number of species in the course of their work, and use basic data that are associated with them (geographic range, traits of leaves or flowers).

They can also be used for other types of research on topics such as conservation, plant disease, plant invasion, and pollution.
GLOBAL PLANTS
BENEFITS FOR COMMUNITY

Access and Discovery
Researchers no longer need to travel to view specimens.
Collections more broadly accessible and discoverable in one centralized location.

Preservation
Specimens are spared damage.
Digital materials are preserved for partners and future generations.
This initiative was funded by the Andrew Mellon Foundation.

The project began in 2003 with the African Plants Initiative before growing into the Latin American Plants Initiative. It is now global in scale.

More than 300 herbaria from more than 75 countries have been working together to bring this content online.

We are very closely involved with the partnership.
GLOBAL PLANTS

GLOBAL PLANTS
WHAT PEOPLE ARE SAYING

“Overall, this valuable resource offers access to a wealth of information: key literature, history, relevant art, geographic distribution, plant classification, background information, and beautiful images. Summing Up: Essential. Lower-division undergraduates through professionals/practitioners; informed general audiences.”

— L. SWATZELL, SOUTHEAST MISSOURI STATE UNIVERSITY
A One-of-a-Kind Partnership: The Global Plants Initiative brings together plant specimens and other materials in one shared online location from some of the most important and largest herbaria in the world.

Content in Context: More than two million high resolution plant type specimens, 160,000 reference works, 100,000 primary sources, with more content to be added.

Preservation of Content: A record of plant life will be preserved for future generations.
Search: Find results quickly through domain-specific filters.

Image Viewer: Examine high-resolution images; measure and save plant information.

MyPlants: Save, tag, and share digital objects.

Linking: Discover related articles on JSTOR, BHL, Tropicos, and GBIF.

Commenting: Join the discussion; comments by experts in the field.

Stable Links: Locate, cite, and create stable links to type specimens.

Religion, History, Sociology, Philosophy, Jewish Studies

Key Titles: Journal of Religion, Religious Studies, Church History, Modern Judaism

Covers the history and philosophy of religious thought spanning traditions, periods, and critical approaches. Titles are drawn exclusively from existing Arts & Sciences collections on JSTOR.

The collection also offers journals targeted in the following areas: Christianity studies, Judaic studies, Islamic studies, Asian and African religions, American religious history, theology.
UPCOMING: STEM

In 2015, JSTOR will launch a Science, Technology & Engineering Collection.

This collection will include:

At least 50 titles at completion.

Science titles accessible to undergraduate and non-specialist audiences.

Trade titles as well as titles from commercial and not-for-profit publishers.

Content to support interdisciplinary research.

In addition, we will expand our Mathematics & Statistics collection with a set of new titles.

REPRESENTED DISCIPLINES INCLUDE:

- Education
- Engineering
- General Science
- History of Science & Technology
JSTOR is developing a virtual research hub for users in the field of Sustainability.

Our initial 2015 offering will include journals, grey literature, and research reports covering:

» Sustainable urbanization

» Food security and sustainable agriculture

» Industrial ecology

» Resource economics

» Forestry and land use

» Environmental and climate change policy

UPCOMING: SUSTAINABILITY STUDIES

REPRESENTED DISCIPLINES INCLUDE:

ALUMNI ACCESS

JSTOR’s goal is to make the content on the platform available to everyone who wants access to it, and to do so in a way that ensures its sustainability.

The Alumni Access Program lets eligible colleges and universities provide alumni with full access to the same set of archival journals collections available to students and faculty.

» Followed a successful three-year pilot that was undertaken with nearly 50 institutions, including public and private institutions, US and international universities, and theological seminaries.

» Helped us examine whether this access model may help to serve the access requests from individuals who are no longer active students at participating institutions.

» Also helped JSTOR and partner libraries understand implementation issues and develop a valuable and sustainable approach.
